California Ports: Confronting Challenges, Gearing for Growth

Join your maritime and trade colleagues to hear the leaders of the ports of Oakland and Long Beach discuss and debate the future of two of our most important trade gateways. Find out what it means for California's economy, our nation's prosperity, and your business success.

Chris Lytle
Executive Director
Port of Oakland

Mario Cordero
Executive Director
Port of Long Beach

Moderated by John McLaurin, president of the Pacific Merchant Shipping Association (PMSA)

More than 40 percent of the total containerized cargo entering the United States arrives at California ports and almost 30 percent of the nation's exports flow through ports in the Golden State.

Port activities employ more than 500,000 people in California and generate an estimated $9 billion in state and local tax revenue annually. Nationwide, nearly 3 million jobs are linked to California's public ports.*

To promote candid conversation and the opportunity for spirited discussion between port executive directors and guests, there is a strict attendance cap. Reserve early!
